

Puppy Love

This Puppy's name is Lucy. Make a list of what you think Lucy needs to stay happy and healthy for one week. You can draw it or write it below.

*What is the price of each thing Lucy needs?
Add the prices together to see how much it will cost to take care of her for one week.*

Now pretend to buy all these things! Your troop can use play money and pictures of what you're buying. Try to use coins—pennies, nickels, dimes, and quarters—and paper money, like a one dollar, five dollar, and ten dollar bills.

Talk about how to make change. You make change when somebody gives you more money for something than what it costs. You won't have to do that to sell the QSP magazines, but you might get change back when you buy something with cash in a store.

Woof! Who's a Good Neighbor?

Lucy is a Labrador Retriever, which is a breed of dog that likes to help people. Girl Scouts are leaders and go-getters when it comes to making life better in their community! Color in the circle below for what you can do and for what a dog can do. Are there any things that you can both do? Or are there things a girl and a dog can do together to improve their community? If you think of something else, write it in the "My idea" space provided.

Girl Helpers

Dog Helpers

I plant vegetables in a community garden or in my backyard and give them to families that need them.

I smell dangerous things and warn people about them.

I sell magazines that may give people good ideas and that will help my Girl Scout troop reach its goals.

I help lead people who are blind or visually-impaired across streets, onto buses, and through grocery stores.
